Happy Holidays!

Happy Holidays to everyone across the State of South Dakota! As I sit here two days before Christmas, I reflect on all the progress that has been made over the past year for the Braille & Talking Book Library Program. Our library is stronger than ever and the future is bright! With 2016 closing in on us, I see everyone benefiting in some way from what's to come in the New Year. Starting with the kickoff of our Winter Reading Program in February and our Adult Book Discussion coming in the Spring, I am certain these two programs will be a huge success.

What does this mean to you, our readers?

- It's faster. Commercial audio books have reduced the production time by ten-fold. It takes 3 to 4 months to produce an average 10-hour digital book from print, but commercial audio books can be converted in 2 to 3 weeks.
- It reduces costs. There is still some cost to converting commercial audiobooks but it is much less expensive than narrating a print book from scratch.
- It helps patrons stay current. New titles are now available on the Braille and Audio Reading Download (BARD) site much closer to the publication date.

Since titles are produced quickly, books are unrated for content. There is no way of knowing how much violence, strong language, or sex are in these books. Patrons can always have unrated books excluded from their reading preferences. Call your Reader Advisor at 1-800-423-6665 if you do not want to read unrated books.

Talking Book Topics on Digital Audio

For those who receive the “Talking Book Topics” in the digital audio format, you previously received the order blank in one mailing and the cartridge in a separate mailing. As of the September/October issue the National Library Service (NLS) began shipping them together in a box. You must return the cartridge in order to receive your next issue. Please note that there is no mailing card to reverse. The return label is affixed to the container. Just drop it in the mail. The order form is addressed to the South Dakota Braille and Talking Book Library. Do not return it to NLS. If you have questions please call your Reader Advisor at 1-800-423-6665.

Tips for Better Service

Now that the holidays are over and family has gone home it's time to sit in your favorite chair and pick out a good book to listen to. Due to postal closures which delayed receiving books on a regular basis the past month you may have experienced your books not coming in a timely manner. You should now begin receiving them on a regular basis. Have you considered increasing your books during the winter months when you stay indoors more?

This may also be a time when you would like to try new authors or subjects. For example, if you are a Christian fiction reader we have cozy mysteries or gentle romances that have little sex, violence, or strong language. You may want to try these authors:

- Donald Bain writes about Jessica Fletcher. You may remember the "Murder She Wrote" television series
- Debbie Macomber is a gentle romance author and centers many of her stories around Blossom Street
- Perry Mason mysteries by Earle Stanley Gardner brings back the character in an old television series as well

Guideposts Magazine

“Guideposts” is a monthly magazine that is non-denominational and contains articles for self-improvement and daily devotions.

The library is now making the magazine available to our readers. If you would like to subscribe to the magazine please call your Reader Advisor at 1-800-423-6665.

South Dakota Collection

The following books have been added to the South Dakota Collection. They are written by a South Dakota author or have some connections to South Dakota. Please call your Reader Advisor if you would like to order any of the following titles.

“County Capitols: The Courthouses of South Dakota”

By Arthur L. Rusch

The histories of many South Dakota towns revolve around two prizes that each community hoped to acquire: a railroad and the county seat. If either of these important attributes could be brought to a town, the likelihood for growth increased. As a result, the building of South Dakota's sixty-four courthouses was a matter of functionality, style and survival.

“Land of the Burnt Thigh”

By Edith Eudora Kohl

Among the hordes of homesteaders who settled the American West was thousands of single women who hoped to gain for themselves a piece of land and the money and satisfaction that came with it. The memoirs for many of these self-described “girl homesteaders”, long ignored by historians, show the significant impact these women had on their communities.

“There Will Be Bears”

By Ryan Gebhart

Tyson is determined to hunt an elk even if it means sneaking his grandpa out of a nursing home in a debut novel sparked with dry wit and wilderness adventure. Thirteen-year-old Tyson loves hanging out with his roughneck Grandpa Gene, who is a lot more fun than Tyson's friend, Brighton.

Newly Added Products Now Available

The following items may be of interest to children and done as a family activity or a child may want to explore building a structure using nuts and bolts. These items may be checked out by calling your Reader Advisor.

“Junior Wooden Construction Set”

It helps children to develop creativity, problem solving skills, muscular coordination, manual dexterity, and construction concepts. Construct all types of structures using various lengths of hardwood which have been drilled with holes. Lengths are linked together with color-coded nuts and bolts. Age range, 5 and up. This is a choking hazard for younger children.

“Web Chase”

This board game was originally designed by the American Printing House for the Blind (APH) that is intended to develop important tactile skills within a fun, recreational context. As players navigate their hungry spiders through an insect-laden web, they learn to trace various raised lines, identify point symbols, and discriminate textures and shapes. The game combines visual and tactile presentation making it accessible to all players regardless of visual ability. This product is not intended for children ages 5 and under without adult supervision.

Celebrating February ... Read!

The library is offering a winter reading program for children ages 0 to 20. The duration of the program is the 28 days in February. There are no age divisions. Reading time is based on the 20/24/7 program where the participants will read a minimum of 20 minutes each day, seven days a week. At the conclusion of the contest the reading chart which documents the days the participant has read is returned. All charts will be eligible for a grand prize drawing of a tablet. If you have not received a letter with the registration form and would like to sign up for the program you may print the one in this newsletter or call Mary Sjerven at 1-800-423-6665, extension 11 or email mary.sjerven@state.sd.us.
