

Where do you and your students dig for primary sources?

How do you sift through them for classroom use?

How can your students use these artifacts in their work?

DIGGING deeper into primary resources

Peggy O'Neill-Jones
director of the Teaching Primary Sources Teachers Network utilizing the Library of Congress

Speakers:

Glenn Wiebe
teacher and social studies consultant for ESSDACK in KS

Jean Patrick
South Dakota author

Dan Daily
USD

Vickie Mix
SDSU

Kristie Maher
South Dakota Discover Center

Brenda Hemmelman
South Dakota State Library

Chad Tussing
SD Game Fish and Parks
Outdoor Campus

Virginia Hanson
South Dakota State Archives

Eric Abrahamson
Black Hills Knowledge Network

Jane Healy
South Dakota State Library

Julie Erickson
South Dakota State Library

Partners

SAVE THE DATE!

March 6, 2015

for K-12 educators & public librarians

Join the SD State Library and special guests at "Digging Deeper into Primary Sources," a free online learning day, March 6, 2015, from 9-5 CT.

Delve into the topic with featured speakers Dr. Peggy O'Neill-Jones, director of the Teaching Primary Sources Teachers Network utilizing the Library of Congress; Glenn Wiebe, teacher and social studies consultant for ESSDACK in KS, and Jean Patrick, SD author.

In addition, survey the area with representatives from the SD Discovery Center, USD, SDSU, SD Historical Society, SD Game Fish and Parks, Black Hills Knowledge Network, and the SD State Library.